CULTIVATING RELATIONSHIPS THROUGH COMMUNITY

OEC Warming Up!

April kicks off our Volunteer Garden Crew Days. Our nine new and eager volunteers will join us in the organic demonstration gardens every other Wednesday starting April 6th through late June. We begin each morning with a brief walk around the garden highlighting what's new and discussing varying topics from cover crops, pests and disease to ideal harvest times.

We just wrapped up another successful COG (Comprehensive Organic Gardener Series) program with 18 graduates. We enjoyed four evening classes and three full days in the gardens at Luscher Farm. This group was hands on in the garden planting, seeding, composting and even exploring our worm bin. Congratulations to our recent participants. We'll be running this series again in the fall, so stay tuned!

The OEC has two new classes in April partnering with Metro and Whole Foods in Portland.

- April 2, 'Early Veggie Growing' from 10-11:30am at Luscher Farm
- April 13, 'Growing Food in the City' from 7-8pm at Whole Foods in the Pearl in Portland. We'll focus on container gardening and growing produce in small urban yards.

Garden News

The soil temperatures are slowly beginning to warm up, we reached 51F in mid March. We'll be establishing a new aspar bed, planting Austrian Crescent potatoes and planting our tomatoes in the ground among other day-to-day gardening tasks. The arugula cover crop planted March 12 is looking especially delicious!
